It gives me pleasure to state to you, that after the examination made by Professor Sellers, Mr. Holmes and myself of the vault erected in your new building. Its admirable location in your office makes it easy of access to your patrons (a feature you have done well to consider), and being fitted up with the level vestibule, in addition to the massive, as well as the ornamental grills and guards, it unquestionably affords every conventence and safeguard your box renters and your company could desire. Yours very truly.

War Continues With the "Rustlers" of Montana.

FIRE AT SPRINGFIELD, OHIO.

A PRETTY GIRL'S AWFUL DEATH.

The Corpse of Mary Chertinski Found in & Pittsburg Park. PITTERURG, Pa., April 12 .- At 8 o'clock this morning the body of a girl, apparently seventeen years old, was found in a lonely spot on a hillside in Schenley Park. The body was terribly mutilated, the head being entirely severed

5 from it. The remains were brought to the 7 morgue.
7 The body of the young woman was found about 6 o clock this morning by Fred. Pulmer lying on the frozen ground on a lonely hillside near the main entrance to the park and about thirty feet from the tracks of the junction railroad. The head was lying in a pool of blood about fifty feet distant from the body, while her button shoes were found about half way between the body and head. The cut part to between the body and head. The cut next to the trunk is as clean as though done with a sharp knife. The left side of the face and lower jaw, however, are terribly mashed and suggest the idea that the girl had been run over by a passing train.

The police do not accept this theory and bes lieve that the girl was first murdered and then perhaps placed where a train would run over Page 10 a slight bruise on the right hip and a scratch

7 Detectives were sent out and about 3 o'clock

They started across the park toward the city. The police found Frewskoski at work at the dairy where he is employed. He vigorously resisted arrest and professes entire ignorance of the tracedy.

The carriage was violently joited and it was feared that it would turn over. There was a rush of spectators to assist Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone. The venerable couple both remained cool. Mr. Gladstone alighted as quietly as if he were at the door of Hawarden Hall. He then gracefully assisted Mrs. Gladstone out, and, hailing a cab, helped Mrs. Gladstone into it. The baggage was then removed from the wrecked carriage and loaded on the cab. A highly important report upon the unsafe condition of the vaults and safes guarding the moneys in the United States Treasury building ties are now watching all the bridges and

The report says the whole system of vaults and safes wherein are stored the treasure of the government is defective. Vault No. 1 in the treasury building is absolutely valueless as a protection to its contents. Other vaults named in the report are also described as practically valueless.

The commission recommends that with such immense values at stake, the government should immediately adopt throughout a system of the best modern vaults, doors and walls, with the most perfect locking arrangements. They urge the immediate replacing of every vault in the treasury building with new ones. In rebuilding the new ones they should be constructed so that they can be at all times inspected from every side.

The report says that the subtreasury in New York is safer than the vaults at Washington.

The report will be submitted to Congress immediately.
